Statement of Support for Ukraine

1 March 2022 by Lauri Myllyvirta

The Centre for Research on Energy and Clean Air (CREA) absolutely condemns the Russian military's unprovoked and unjustified attack against another sovereign nation, Ukraine. The assault goes against the fundamental values of human wellbeing, safety, and dignity that our organisation seeks to advance.

During and after the conflict, CREA will be looking for ways to support Ukraine's struggle. We will be redirecting our resources to this end as needed. This includes identifying solutions to eliminate Europe's reliance on fossil fuel imports from Russia and its vulnerability to deliberate supply disruptions, as well as the effective implementation of economic and financial countermeasures against Russia and the Stop fuelling Putin's war!

I'm writing to you with an urgent message from Ukraine.

Putin's missiles are destroying our cities and killing civilians, including our children. As a mum, sister, and daughter, I can tell you it's terrifying – but today we can all do something to help make a difference in this horrific war.

As the world is mobilising to stop this horror, European governments and financial institutions are still fuelling Putin's war machine with billions, by importing and investing in the Russian oil, gas and coal.

But this week, European heads of states are meeting to discuss the war in Ukraine – let's use this moment to massively ramp up

SIGN THE PETITION

To EU leaders, world governments and the CEOs of major finance firms:

As citizens around the world, we're calling on you to ban imports of Russian oil, gas and coal and stop doing business with Russian fossil fuel companies now. This means no more imports and no new financing, investment, insurance coverage, and other financial services to these companies, and divesting from existing assets. Take this historic step, urgently accelerate the clean energy transition and implement bold social policies to protect the most vulnerable.
